Catharine Littlefield "Caty" Greene Miller (1755-1814), was active in the Revolutionary War alongside her first husband, General Nathanael Greene. She is also credited with influencing Eli Whitney in the creation of the mechanical cotton gin, a device that brought massive amounts of wealth to Southern land owners and was a cause of the expansion of slavery in the American South.

We are thrilled to present a living historical presentation of Ms. Caty Greene, portrayed by Ms. Carin Bloom.
